

Bridgman Superintendent announces 2025 retirement

BRIDGMAN — A recent press release from Bridgman Public Schools announced that Superintendent Shane M. Peters has officially announced his retirement, effective June 30, 2025, “after 14.5 years of dedicated service.”

Peters said the decision to retire comes “after thoughtful consideration, recognizing the profound impact of his time at Bridgman Public Schools.”

“I am filled with gratitude for the unwavering support and collective commitment to educational excellence that defines the spirit of Bridgman Public Schools,” Peters stated. “Each challenge we faced became an opportunity for learning and growth, and each success was a testament to the resilience and unity of this exceptional community.”

In his announcement, Peters expressed confidence that the positive seeds sown together will continue to flourish, contributing to an environment of inspiration and empowerment for future generations.

Peters said he is fully prepared to work closely with the Board of Education and the administrative team, facilitating the transfer of knowledge, completing ongoing projects, and serving as a support resource for his successor.

According to Bridgman Board of Education President Eric Ramso “The district looks forward to continuing its success under new leadership while building upon the legacy of excellence that Shane M. Peters leaves behind.”
